

Financial Support for New Delegates to attend the AULC Conference 10-11th January 2019, King's College, London

The AULC holds its international conference every year in January. For the 2019 conference at King's College, London, financial support is available to delegates who have never attended an AULC conference before and who may not have access to funding for professional development. The AULC will cover the costs of up to two nights in a hotel selected by the AULC, as well as the cost of the conference dinner, for up to a maximum of 10 applicants. Unfortunately, the AULC cannot support travelling costs.

For 2019 AULC is especially keen to support delegates from member institutions who do not often have the opportunity to attend the Conference.

Please fill in the form below and ask your line manager to sign to confirm that there are no funds available to cover the cost of your accommodation at the AULC conference.

Please email the form to: Mark Critchley (mark.critchley@durham.ac.uk) or send it by post to: Mark Critchley, Director, Centre for Foreign Language Study, School of Modern Languages & Cultures, Durham University, Rm 219, Elvet Riverside, New Elvet, Durham DH1 3JT

All applications for this financial support received by 12:00, Friday 14th December 2018 will be considered by a sub-committee of the AULC Executive Committee. We are aware that successful applicants for this funding will have to make travel plans so we will email applicants shortly after this deadline. Thank you.
